

Award Winners!!

Marlene DeLuca Award

For outstanding scientific contributions to the 18th International Symposium on Bioluminescence and Chemiluminescence the Marlene DeLuca award has been presented to 3 scientists from Oman, Japan and Sweden. The award is intended to encourage young researcher in their scientific work and they are awarded $1,500.00

It has been named in honor of Marlene DeLuca who has pioneered the science of bioluminescence and chemiluminescence, one of her many contributions being cloning of the firefly luciferase gene.

Berthold Technologies traditionally awards the prizes at the biennial meeting of the International Society for Bioluminescence and Chemiluminescence (ISBC). The recent event took place in Uppsala, Sweden and was hosted by Prof. Roland Lindh, Uppsala University, Dept of Quantum Chemistry.

These 3 young researchers have been selected for their excellent presentations and results:

Butheina Abdullah Mohammed AlHaddabi, Sultan Qaboos University, Dept of Chemistry and The Royal Court:
Determination of the total phenolic / antioxidant content in honey samples using formaldehyde / potassium permanganate chemiluminescence system in a novel microfluidics device.

Pooria Farahani, Uppsala University, Department of Chemistry - Angstrom Lab: CASPT2/CASSCF Study of the Ring-Opening Mechanism of Dewar Dioxetane

Shusei Kanie, Nagoya University, Graduate School of Bioagricultural Sciences, Dept. of Applied Molecular Biosciences: Biosynthetic Components and Decarboxylation from L-Cystein in Firefly Luciferin Biosynthesis
